

Human Rights Community Summit

Request for Workshop Proposals (Deadline: Jan. 14, 2010)

The Community Coalition for Advancement of Human Rights, an informal network of local social justice groups and their allies, is organizing a Human Rights Community Summit. It will be held at Eugene, Oregon's Lane Community College on Saturday, April 10, 2010. The Summit will provide an opportunity for community members to learn more about human rights and new ways that we can all work together on local human rights issues.

The Summit will include an afternoon of action-oriented workshops addressing problems and issues on which local social justice groups, social service providers, and others are currently working.

We invite you to submit a proposal for a workshop that will:

- Acquaint participants with one or more problems/issues that your group is currently addressing at the local level
- Provide participants with ways in which they can be actively engaged with you in addressing these problems/issues after the Summit is over

Proposals for workshops should be prepared with these two purposes in mind.

We ask that your workshop proposal frame the local problems or issues on which you are working in human rights terms. You may do this in any way that you wish. We will give priority consideration to workshops that will be engaging and participatory, and that will provide specific ways for participants to work together with you on these human rights problems and issues in the future.
